The regular meeting of the school board was held on Monday evening. there being a full attendance of the ommissioners.

The bequest made by the late J D. Witter to the school board of the ity was formally accepted and resolutions of thanks were offered and accepted.

The matter of putting up a ne nuilding with the funds made available was discussed and it was decided erect a mannal training and domestic science school, work to comшенее он ваше аз воен аз praetical.

A committee consisting of I. P. Witter, W. F. Kellogg, W. H. Reeves, J. W. Natwick and T. A. Taylor was appointed as a sort of preliminary committee for the purpose of securing designs which will be submitted to the board at a later meeting.

Altho not decided definitively, it is probable that the new building will be erected on the grounds of the Lincoln building, a short distance south of where the high school building now stands. Another matter that was suggested was that the heating plant be taken out of the Lincoln building and placed in a building by itself and so arranged that the build. ings can be heated from it. This plan would do away with some of the objectionable features that have existed since the building of the Lincoln choul, and may be adopted.

The erection of a school for the teaching of domestic science and manual training will put our public school system among the foremost in

Reign of the Bunko Men. Clark street became as infamous for The bunko game in the days of the Mc Donald crowd as for gambling. The bunko steerers were gamblers, and the gamblers, or many of them, were bunko sterrers. Harry Lawrence was one of the best known of the bunko men. Before McDonald became known as the gamilier king of the city he was strongly interested in the bunko game, in brief, the bunko game was operated in this way: The steerers, well-Clark street figures in the days when dressed and snave, sought their prey that street was known from coast to in the hotels principally. Jero Dunn in the Street.

But best known of all, not excepting McDonald himself, was Jere Dunn, slayer of "Jimmy" Efflott, the heavy-weight prize fighter. Clark street during the reign of McDonald was the Mecca of many crooks, gamblers, confidence men, "bad" men and other classes of disreputables, but no figure ever appeared in the street who, by gree of his all-around wickedness commanded the attention that Jere Dunn got. Even Dunn's friends did not claim for him any degree of morals. Some of them say that he was "square" with his partners in crime, but his history disproves even that contention. One of the men who knew him best says that Dunn never knew what physical fear was, if this was true it is about all the good that can he said of him, even after his death. HOME OF THE EASTER LILY

Flower Was Introduced Into the Islands of Bermuda by himself as a street sweeper, a garbage eart driver, a junk dealer, or in one of the several honorable callings which an American.

There is only one monument in the whole British colony of the Bermudas -and it is erected to the memory of an American. This fact may seem a bit strange until one has heard the story, which is really a story of the Bermuda lily, and of the man who nade it possible.

Many years ago-during President Hayes' administration, in fact-Gen. Russel Hastings, who had made for himself a brilliant record during the rivil war, was married in the White House at Washington. He and his oride went to Bermuda on their wedding trip, and were so charmed with the beauty of the place that they resolved then and there to return, and, if possible, to make it their permanent abode. The climate, too, appealed to them. (The general had been seriously wounded in the war, and was far from well.)

A little later the two came again. Not as tourists this time, but as homecekers. In those days the now-existing law that none but English citizens can own land in English colonies was not in force. So General Hastings had no difficulty in acquiring a large es-tate. He chose a picturesque site in the little city of Hamilton, surrounding a land-locked bay. Here he bullt his "Sonei," which stands to-day among tropical trees and luxuriant home, flowers.

Not only did General Hastings at once become deeply interested in the place, and in the possibilities for its development, but he was genuinely distressed at the poverty of the islanddistressed at the poverty of the islanders, says a writer in the Detroit Free Press. Setting about to improve matters, he studied the climatic conditions, experimented again and again, and at length his efforts were crowned with success. It was found that our present-day Easter lily, originally a native of Japan, would attain in Bernud. muda to a perfection of loveliness hitherto unknown. The islanders were soon pressed into service, and since about 1876 the culture of lilies has been not only their chief pride, but their chief means of livelihood as well. Imagine a tiny group of islands, far out in the Atlantic—the largest of them about 15 miles long and not wider, at most, than a mile and a half—set beneath the bluest of blue skies, and seeming to rest on water whose transparency and brilliancy of color are unequaled anywhere. This is Bermuda, the home of the Easter Illy.

As the incoming boat skirts the as one incoming to a said state like white summer clouds dropped down from the sky upon the green islands. Lily fragrance fills the air and is blown by the wind far out the water. Coming nearer you see the fields more clearly-rows upon rows of blossoms, tall, stately and snowy white. It is very heantiful. It was not until the early '80's that the Bermuda fily became well known in the United States. It is said that a Philadelphia woman, returning from the islands, brought home a plant to This came to the attention of W. K. Harris, an enterprising florist of the Quaker city, who purchased a lot of the bulbs, from which he sucbloom. ceeded in raising hundreds of plants, introducing them under the name Lilium Harrish. Thus the Easter Bly Industry spread to America, and to other countries as well. But nowhere dowers grow so perfect and beautiful as under the quickening warmth of the tropical sun of Bermuda.

Ordinarily only bulbs are exported, but at the rush season whole hoat loads of cut buds and of thickly-budded plants are packed and shipped away, carrying the sweet message away, carrying the sweet message of the Eastertide into countless homes and churches.

General Hastings is dead. In spite of his long residence in Bermuda, he remained a devotedly loyal American citizen and from time to time concerned himself with public affairs, ed misself with partial various positions of responsibility and honor. The Islanders remember him as their friend and benefactor, and that they and those that come after them may not be unmindful of debt of gratitude they owe, a beautiful monument has been recently erected in Hamilton in his memory.

An Easter Lay,
Behold: What light in yonder sky?
The angels echo in reply:
It is the Dester Dawn.
Let earels sweet ring through the air,
And flowers distil their perfume rare,
This Hesurrection mern."

For Christ has risen, as He said, Blest Saviour of the quick and der Chant loud the glad refrain. For angels relied the stone away. And Christ arose ere broke the day And evermore shall reign.

Everybody knows that Mirabeau was hideous, but it is less generally realized that his eyes were beautiful and his voice extraordinarily fascinating. Moreover, though in private his manners were coarse and over-familiar, to strangers he was almost too elaborately polite and coremonious. In addition, strength-strength of every kind-was the characteristic impression conveyed by him; no one could be in his presence not feel the sense of a forceful and dominating personality.

The glantour of it was to ruln poor Sophie Mounnier, married at 18 to an irascible, jealous, narrow-minded man Curlously enough, her parents, who evidently had a taste for elderly husbands, had previously nearly married their daughter to the famous Buffon. For Sophic also fell in love, and since Mirabeau was not the kind of man it was possible to feel gently and temperately about, either in love or hate, everything but this love was clean swept away in her. Her husband spied upon her let-ters, had her watched, made alarming scenes, and threatened every kind of punishment. For a time she was even kept a prisoner in her room and deprived of pen, ink and paper. IDEAL BARN FLOOR.

One Made of Cement Meets All Requirements.

I think an ideal floor for a cow to stand on is cement, writes an Ohio farmer. You can keep a stable floor lry If you use plenty of absorbents. I have been rash enough to say a man should use land plaster in his stable, but Prof. Ketch says land plaster has no power to fix ammonia at Therefore, we must put on lots of bedding, and not allow it to remain unler the cow until it is all matted down, and when we stir It up find mold n it; keep it working to the gutter and put on fresh. I have never found so good an absorbent as good, fresh horse manure scattered behind the lows each morning with road dust. It holds the ammonia, takes up all he limited and keeps the cow reasonably clean. If a man is going to have a sanitary stable, he must put in hard work, and I would recommend a manure carrier, and to clean out the stable twice a day.

Care of the Separator. In order to have the perfect motion of the separator bowl, the machine must be set level and be kept clean and well ofled. The oil should be thin or light, so it will not gum the wearing parts. A heavy oil will make the muchine run hard and will gum quickly on small high-speed bearings. All the bearings of the machine should be frequently flushed with coal oil. It is well to make a run about once in two or three weeks, using coal oil on all the bearings. This keeps the parts free from gum and washes out grit or sand that may have blown into thom. It is an excellent plan to have a cover of close-woven cloth or oilcloth, that can be kept over the machine while it is not in operation. This will keep out dust and will add materially to the lasting powers of the machine. The separator should be set upon a good solid floor, so that it will established. not move about as the operator turns the crank.-Prof. E. H. Webster.

One thing ought always to be considered when men start out to buy pure bred cattle. That is, that the knowledge, skill and character of the reeder is about as important as is the animal they are to buy.

There is a wonderful difference between being a real breeder and one who simply mates male and female. says Hoard's Dalryman. The art and philosophy of breeding is a very deep question. One man's cattle show alost always a progressive quality They are the product of skillful, intelligent mating. Another man gives no thought to the deeper phases of the question. He simply breeds pure bred cattle together and there is no intelligent adaptation of means to ends. The average capacity of his cattle shows a hit and miss result, that is very confusing and disappointing. It is right to say that there will be fully enough failures even with the most thoughtful and comprehensive breed-

What must it be with men who bestow but little thought or study upon deeper physiological problems that are involved and which will have way? Take, for instance, this matter of keeping two or more buils in a breeding herd. The question of a successful "nick" is an all-important Yet in almost every herd of 25 females there will be found a certain number which do not nick well with the head of the herd. An observant breeder will note this. Mate them with another sire and with the most of them at least the result will show a decided improvement in the strength and vigor of the offspring.

And so, we say, that the skill and comprehension of the breeder himself is a matter of great importance to the man who is about to buy breeding ani-The working and effectiveness mals. effectively the best qualities of each.

SEPARATOR WILL PAY.

Cleanliness in Milking and in Use of Separator Secret of Success.

First get your milk clean. Then by all means get a separator, if you haven't one, and keep it clean also. It is surprising how many neglect to keep their separators clean. Some agents instruct their customers not to wash the separator more than once a the young growing stock. Give them day. done twice a day. The convenience, saving in butter is better than a large farm with a large herd, because the small farm will do more in proportion than the butter. There are many dairymen in our state, declares an Iowa farmer in Farm and Home, throwing away from $50 to $100 worth of butter rather continuous from than to buy a separator costing from $50 to $100.

High Standard in Dairying.

Most of our farmers need a higher standard in dalrying. They have too long been satisfied with a very ordinary cow, fed on ordinary feed, giving ordinary milk with only an ordinary percentage of fat on it. Every farmer that has not yet done so, should revise his standards and push all of them up a notch higher. If his cows are making 200 pounds of butter per year on the average, he should set the standards at 250 or more pounds, and so in the quality of feed fed. Too many are content with standards that do not give a large margin of profit on the business of dairying. The men that have succeeded in making much money out of dairying are those that have set high standards and worked towards them.

Best Way to Keep Corn Fodder. Some people may like the idea of leaving corn fodder out in the field until it is wanted. hibiting spring shooting. There is not a single reason why spring shooting should be allowed; there is abundant reason why it should not.

Spring shooting simply means the inughter of game that should be protected. No true sportsman wants it. There may be persons calling themselves men who would derive pleasure from the wholesale killing of ducks that are on their way north to their nesting grounds, but it is a would bring the pleasure" that blush of shame to the cheeks of men who have the instincts of true sportsmen. Such killing would be little short of a crimo.

NOT THE SAME.

Our "Safety deposit boxes" and "Home savings banks' are two entirely different things. The Safety deposit boxes are steel drawers in our fire proof vault. The renter carries the key and in the box he keeps his insurance policies, notes, mortgages, etc. The cost is only $1.00 per year.

The Home savings banks are little steel safes which we loan to savings depositors free of charge. You take the bank and we keep the key. -- You put in your spare change and then bring it here and we will open it and place the amount to your credit in the savings bank, where it begins drawing interest. Call and talk with us about it.

Among the green poplars which enfold what we thought was to remain forever the wind swept capital of North Dakota there are many tents, scores of them. They are not however, the tents of the Sicux but of the settlers who have not had time to build their houses.

interest for those who have lost a

The immigrants came by battalious English, Scotch, French, Germans Swedes and Norwegians. There are fifteen known languages in some of their schools. They came in broads and flocks and colonies. Last year the Salvation Army brought in hundreds. When you see a home steader, you cannot tell whether or not he is within the range of human speech. You bitterly reflect only that he is one of those who have wiped out the old frontier, lost it forever to those who love the wilderness. Follow the Northern Pacific with finger on the map and answer for yourself the question as to that frontier which you and I late thought would last forever. But where is the frontier? They show you pictures of the old Hudson's Bay Company stores of other days and tell of low-roofed rooms, smoky and filled with furs and dog harness and traps The first immigrant to North Dakoa neither made a past nor assured a future for this new empire. He was no broader than the track of the Red River cart and lived on the buffalo and subsisted chiefly on whiskey. He was a cumberer of the earth and spelled no progress whatever. This was his farm and he reaped its harvest of fur where no man sowed or tilled. I recently travelled over this northern Empire and talked with many women, knowing them more conser them are discontented. I looked out standard sizes and styles at prices to suit

What about a frontier where they are raising more wheat than the rail. roads can haul to market? But there is a frontier, it is marked on the map by a group of small towns in the Nevada desert. Twenty-four hours by rail from San Francisco over the spine of the Sierras Goldfield the center of the group of mushroom growth is compounded of dugouts, tents, buts of beer bottles and adbbe. Pick and pan have been supplanted by electric hoist and ventilator.

The railroad calls at the door. The incessant noise of mills and machinery is punctured by the muffied thud of dynamite. A walk through the mines and a trip down one or two of the shafts in an ore bucket, leaves one clay-stained and hungry. The notels are clean and almost cozy, a eath costs one dollar. The tender foot who is looking for adventure does not find it difficult to remember that this is the furthermost frontler of Western America. The exponent of the red shirt, cowhide boots, and every ready hip arsenal is fast passing away. Romance still centers about him, but he is gone like the prairie

There is, however, a characteristic note which designates the frontier; the absence of artificial class distinction. The women however, may be catalogued under three heads, the married woman, the wife, and mother, removed and preserved by marriage; the independent unattached young lady, earning her way by methods at typewriter or soda fonntam, bright eyed, quick-tongued, holding her own against all comers, and the omni-present night-butterfly who as the yellow moon balances on the low black wave of hills, hovers on the porch of her cabin, flicking her cigarette, and joking with the passers by. Chinamen are not allowed in Goldfield and such negroes as arrive there are permitted to do the work of porters only. These are the types one meets, these the divisions of society. On the frontier where life itself is precarious, the gambling instinct reaches its culmination. There are few things more characteristic of a community than its amusements.

For this reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison-marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine date it must be the shoot of the start of the shoot of the shoot Reports received from Stockton state that at Lockford the water has risen three feet and a half in three hours, and that three bridges had been washed away. tor introduced us to a new variety of germ and leaves us alone with it while he plunges into pastures new to scare up germs of another feather we may feel somewhat down in the mouth, but we can contemplate the germy scheme of things in sorrow rather than in anger. But when a magazine writer gets possession of the facts the sciontist has dispussionately uncarthed and tries to frighten us into attempting to dodge the microbe by executing feats compared to which the tasks of Her cules would be mere calisthenics, we have every right to resent it.

A serious-minded contributor to an altogether serious periodical urges that whenever children return from playing in the streets they should be treated thoroughly with a powerful germicide. It is difficult enough to catch little Willie and hold him down while scrubbing the shadows from behind his ears-and hard enough upon Willie in the opinion of any man who remembers the days, many and full of trouble, when he was pounced upon by a merciless being with six times his strength and none of the tenderness arge amounts. It became a comparation is some of it is worth re-telling in any that should accompany might and held in a vise-like grip while an attempt was made to rub his back hair out by the roots with a rough washrag. It is difficult enough to circumvent little Willie once or twice a week and get him into a healthful but hated tub. To inaugurate a policy of spewing a germ elde all over him whenever he comes into the halls of his ancestors would be to alienlate him utterly. If It did not crystallize his latent determination to become a boy highwayman or cause him to drown himself in the rain barrel he would surely strike out for himself as a street sweeper, a garbage cart driver, a junk dealer, or in one of he several honorable callings which appeal to the imagination of the street bred urchin. Of course, some spiritless and superlatively good children might tamely submit to the ordeal of the medicine bath, but whom the gods love die young in any event, so why make them miserable during the brief period of their stay on earth?

Their Dire Predicament. A bit of real life of the North sea Ashfolk is exhibited in a letter sent to the editor of a London paper. The letter runs as follows:

I was talking to the vicur of Gorleston the other day in his study, from which one catches a glimpse of the dim and dreary North sea just out-

Touching his forelock in response to his vicar's hearty greeting, he sald: "Look 'ere, vicar, we're in a reg'lar quandary aboard our smack, and knowin' as you know all there is to know about the law, I thought I'd come and ask your advice.

"Last December we chaps on board our smack-the skipper, the mate, me and two other men, and the boyclubs together and buys a accordion. NOT THE SAME.

Our "Safety deposit boxes" and "Home savings banks" are two entirely different things. The Safety deposit boxes are steel drawers in our fire proof vault. The renter carries the key and in the box he keeps his insurance policies, notes, mortgages, etc. The cost is only $1.00 per year. The Home savings banks are little steel safes which we loan to savings depositors free of charge. You take the bank and we keep the key. - - You put in your spare change and then bring it here and we will open it and place the amount to your credit in the savings bank, where it begins drawing interest. Call and talk with us about it.

Recommend Sterilization.

The legislative visiting committee has filed its report with Governor
Davidson and among other recommendations, urges the enactment of a key providing for the sterilization of idiotic, feeble-minded and degenerate inmates of the state institutions. On has filed its report with Governor inmates of the state institutions. On this subject the committee says:

"After a careful and thorough examination of the institutions and the conditions of the inmates therein confined, your committee have been forcibly impressed with the influence of heredity upon the inmates as shown in the mental condition of a large number of such inmates, and the necessity for some measure to prevent these conditions. It must be remembered that these degenerates must always be such, that they can rarely be self-supporting without danger to the state and consequently must always be the wards of the state in its almhouses and institutions. The state therefore has the right to act in the place of the parent and also to take measures to prevent their propagation. Too much stress cannot be placed upon the present danger to race and rational measures of eradication from our midst of the dangerous and brutal classes. The public must be made to see that radical methods are necessary. The method now advanced by sociologists, philanthropists, charitable workers and penalogists is sterilization. This method is neither dangerous nor painful to the dangarous nor painful to the litery steeker individual and your committee re-trait schmidt frame frank schmidt commend that a bill with this cod in A.
